Compete Better with Coridian

As the competition intensifies, so does your need for new and smarter ways to streamline your business processes, raising productivity and keeping a lid on costs in every inch of your manufacturing operation. But how do you squeeze out even more speed, accuracy, or efficiency when resources are already stretched?

Rely on Coridian Technologies to help you with its leading-edge data collection and product identification insights. We sharpen our understanding of your business challenges with our 360° Review of your processes and systems. We base our solutions on solid partnerships with best-in-class technology providers, such as Zebra® Technologies, customizing the right solutions for your business. Since 1996, we've developed and provided solutions that become integral to our clients' systems for efficiently and effectively serving their customers' needs.

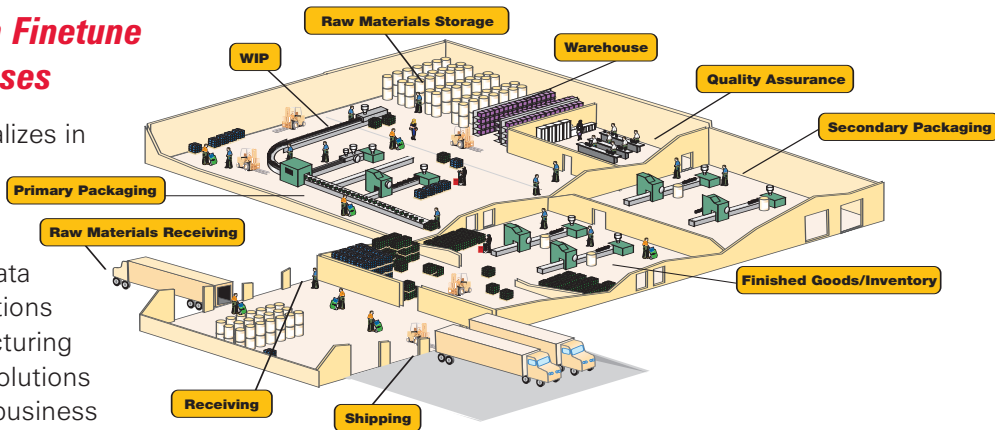

Let Coridian Finetune Your Processes

Coridian specializes in providing bar code and RFID labeling, printing, and data collection solutions to the manufacturing industry. Our solutions enhance your business processes with minimal hassle and maximum impact. First we question: Are you employing the right materials and print method in the right location? When and how can you use data integration more effectively? Trained in lean manufacturing techniques, we focus on analyzing the processes you have in place, so we can configure solutions that integrate seamlessly and cost-efficiently into your MRP systems, now and into the future. That's our 360° Review process, and our many customers will attest to its successful results.

Gain Fast ROI

Because we get to know your existing framework of systems and needs, Coridian can ensure that you get the fastest payback for your investment. Our 360° Review process results in efficiency improvements, large and small, that are based on the lean business practices we can share with you. You can expect top quality hardware, software, and service ideas that become solutions implemented on time and cost-effectively—leading to fast ROI.
